CANTON BANK NOTES.

The officials are experiencing some trouble with the old and new bank notes, and recently the manager of the local treasury had twice to issue proclamations dealing with the question. It seems that the officials have decided that a bank note shall be passed at a discount of three per cent. Moreover it has been decided that ten cent pieces shall be subjected to the same discount, and notes are supposed to have the same value as small coins. But from what can be gathered from the general murmuring many of those who do business do not conform to this ruling, and when bank notes are tendered in payment for any purchase shop keepers often attempt to discount them to a larger extent. This fact has reached the sais of the officials, and the result is the issue of more stringent threats, in the hope that these will deter business men from attempting to wring money out of the poor who come to them with a single note in payment of accounts.

IMPERIAL MERCHANT SERVICE GUILD

It may be remembered that the Imperial Merchant Ferrice Guild had a special Conference with the Shipping Federation. as representing a large number of Ships owners in England, in January and the many grievances under which Officers labour, the way of pay and conditions, were full discussed. The Guild-has now received communication from the Shipping Federa Con Station that as a result of the Gulla interview with the Committee of the Fode ration it was decided to forward the Guild's letter dated the 14th November Last, which stated very fully the views of the Gulld will repard to the conditions al employment and the remuneration of Officers to the Empowhere Associations throughout the constry. You cannot lock up your deportment in an encyclopudia and act accordingly. In fact, organised government does not constitute civilisation half so much as these queer vetoes and

"Now, what is likely to happen if this civilisation is adopted by the Oriental world? These customs are arriving in the East separately and severally ; for instance, Japanese women tried the Western dress and abandoned it, whereas the men have taken to the Western costume. Again, our military activity has already arrived. What type will come from the complete mixture? I believe that the Far East will adopt our customs so far as they touch business and war, but that the home will remain Oriental. Then, a difficulty will result from the fact that those customs really do depend on our home life. For instance, we believe in evolution with the edge taken

DECORATIVE FURGERY.

Under this title a writer in The Langet discusses surgical operations whose aim is not to save life or to our or relieve disosse but morely to improve the subject's per sonal appearance. Some surgeons refuse to perform such operations and loave them:

f r so-called "boauty ductors," who are very clients who avail themselves of their skilled services. The writer in The Lancet argues, on the contrary, that this "dec r. stive surgery " is not only, justifiable, but often essential, and is a real and important part of the surgeon's duties. If it is undertaken by qualified practitioners, will be performed by ignorant and unskilled pers ns, since there will always be men and women willing to suffer pain and inconvenience, and even to run real risks pulchritude that nature unkindly refused to bestow. To quote the paper named "Operations may be usefully divided into two cinsees-into those which are required for the life, for the health, or for at least the comfort of the sufferer, and those which are performed merely to improve the personal appearance of the patient. . . . The distinction between the two classes of operations, cannot always be drawn very clearly, for there are cases which lie on the border-line. An operation for strangulated hernia is undoubtedly an operation of necessity, and equally certainly an operation undertaken merely in order to improve the personal appearance of its owner. In these two cases the distinction s obvious. But is the curs of harelip to be considered an operation of necessity or an eperation performed morely for the purpose.

There can be no doubt that physical malformations which interfere is no way with the well-being of their possessor may yet cause an immense amount of mental ter-ture to those who have them -an amount of mental pain which can hardly b normally. A slight barelip, a nose with sunken bridge, nose with a bulbous end the presence of a large mole on the face even an overgrowth of hair on the face of woman, harmless though they may be in themselves, may be sufficient to make the lives of their owners intensely miserable.

sensitiveness, but it is important t recognize how vital a matter it is to those who are so afflicted. Even from :

pecuniary point of view these deformities occupations a young woman will find a deformity of the face a very definite bar to employment, and she may be compelled to accept a lower rate of wages in conse quence. . . . The absence of a nose may not in the least interfere with the working-powers of a man, but he will undoubtedly find that it will militate.

against his power of getting work. This-diminution in the earning-espacity of those who have facial deformities is very real and the knowledge of it, and the concomitant recognition of the fact that many people have an involuntary shrinking from those who are deformed, must act pre-

This is why, the writer goes on to say, attempts to cure, to remove, or, at least, regarded as important. We have only t determine what limits there are to surgical practise in this direction. The greatest care must, of course, be taken, and the facthat these operations are not performed with life dependent upon them, and strictly speaking, need not be performed at all, must not persuade the surgeon to relax his watchfulness. The writer tells us in

"But the responsibility of assisting the public by cosmetic operations is upon the medical profession If surgeons will not undertake the manifold operations belonging to this class, the unqualified practitioner will step in and will carry out inefficiently the work neglected by the surgeon., Without training and without due knowledge of the conditions and of the risks that are run in operating and of the precautions that should be taken, unqualified operators do grievous harm.

Already they vedture to undertake much that is pore surgery, and the evil is growing. It is true that the surgeon is willing to operate on harelips and a few of the more striking deformities, but m my of the malformations he will not touch. In skilled hands the risk and danger are small, and with practise the results may be very good. The work must

Burgess' Endurance and Vitality—

It is the big success, the great deed itself, that proves the wisdom of Burgess in employing Phosferine to provide the endurance and energy which enabled him to swim the Channel. To Phosferine the mighty Yorkshireman owes it that he has achieved more than any other living man, for on this historic occasion he used Phosferine to prepare for his daring and thrilling 23 hours' swim! Comparing his triumph with his previous failures, Burgess declares that the unlimited nerve force derived from Phosferine furnished the endurance to finish his swim successfully. this time. Obviously Phosferine was the making of Burgess' great deed, and alike with other innumerable victors who have achieved renown by the invigorating aid of Phosferine, he frankly declares that Phosferine alons provides the force and vitality necessary for continuous mental and physical exertion:

How he made success sure.

Mr. T. W. Burgess, 30, Dover Road, Walmer, Deal, writes:-"I am very pleased to place on record my keen appreciation of Phosferine as a nerve and muscle tonic of the highest order. I have proved from experience the unfailing efficacy of this admirable remedy, and in preparing for this special demand upon my energies, it has been of incalculable benefit to me, and its recuperative effects immediately after my successful Channel Swim were excellent. Its sustaining and strengthening properties are very marked, and for nervous breakdown and feats of physical endurance I consider. Phosferine is indispensable."

Value of a University Career.

Is has been the custom for some years past to "run down" the great universidies." as behind the times in their methods of preparing men fur the competitive conditions of modern industry or commerce-Many men who have been to Oxford or Cambridge say feelingly that it was " so much time wasted." But a prper read. by Mr H. A. Roberts, secretary to the University of Cambridge Appointments Board, before the Royal Society of Arts. put quite a different complexion on the "Education in Science as a Preparation" for Industrial Work" was the title of the paper, and the subject has lately been dealt with in the columns of The Standard. The crux of the matter is this :- The old idea of the university was that it afforded an education for the man who intended to pursue a professional or ornamental career -or no career at all. The new iden is that "it gives him the highest kind of scientific education which will fit him for the openings in industry and commerce which are ready to be filled by men who, up to the age of twenty-three or twentyfour, have been properly trained. The complicated industrial processes of to-day need innumerable highly qualified chemists. The best technical schools supply a large proportion, but many manufacturers now believe that they must look to the carefully trained experts of the universities for their

"A big change is coming over us. Parents, belonging even to the 'very nicest' people, are beginning to realise that there is nothing shameful in their sons going into commerce, though the old spirit, of course, still lingers.

"I am still sometimes depressed," said Mr Roberts, "when I tell the headmaster, of a public school that a favourite pupil has gone into the service of a great commercial house, and he replies; 'I hoped he was destined for a more dis inguished career.", There is also the professional parent who tells Mr Roberts that his son will be wasted in business, since "any one can make money." And we should not forget the late headmaster of a great public school who wanted his boys taught "as much science as a gentleman ought to know."

Mr Roberts went very deeply into his subject, but what the "new education". is doing, for instance, at Cambridge, cannot be better indicated than by quoting a table showing what has happened in commercial life to 176 engineering graduates, most of them of the years 1902-6. Their employment at the beginning of 1909 was as follows :--

Directors or partners in manufacturing concerns-10.

Partners in consulting engineering firms—14.

Subordinate positions in manufacturing arms (ennging from draughtsman or works manager's assistant up to works manager) - 49.

Assistants to consulting engineers-9. Professors or heads of teaching institu-

Assistant leachers-17. In service of Government, municipalities, or railway companies in the British Isles—12. Government engineering services abroad-28. Miscellancons-31.

The average of salaries throughout was distinctly satisfactory. Finally, Mr Roberts protested against the ill-informed people who are constantly "bleating" about what the universities are not doing. "We have at Cambridge spent, I suppose, much more than half a million in our endeavour to entisfy imporative modern requirements. To something like £350,000 in the last decade I can positively speak from personal knowledge. How long will the parrot cry continue that 'these old universities must

BATTLESHIP TURRETS.

Italian Designer's Novel Suggestion.

Though at one time it seemed that with the all-centre line ship and the triple turret, battleship design would standardise into a general type much as three-deckers distinguishing themselves from those did's hundred years or so ago, there is unlucky individuals who have not sucample reason now to believe that novel coeded in piling up a fortune. The crests ideas are by no neans exhausted. There are reproduced on notepaper and the was recently described in a. Home panels of motor cars, and in some cases big guns! -To-achieve this he proposes a large triangular turret, which would roughly be double the area of the ordinary two-gun turret. At each angle of the triangle, suitably flat-faced, a pair of guns are mounted, all six being presumably served from a central hoist. This turret in action would be kept constantly revolving to allow of two guns firing while the other four were constituents. Letters of Credit granted on loading! The arguments he advances in favour of his idea are that a saving of 30 per cent, of weight would be effected, and that he is thus carrying to its logical conclusion the triple-gun turret principle. He claims that in 1898 he evolved the centre line superposed turret system now common to most modern battleships, a system hailed as ridiculous when he first proposed it. It may be added that, though his application of a triangular turret is novel, the germ of the idea is not." So long ago as 1869 Sir Edward Reed discussed the possibility of mounting guns in a broadside ironclad so that they would be available on either side. Admiral Colomb also had some ideas on the subject, and about the year 1870 there was actually designed and built for the British Navy the small ironclad ram Hotspur, which carried a fixed turret, inside which a single 25-ton gun revolved, firing through the most convenient port The experiment was a failure, and an > ordinary turnet was afterwards substituted." Modern guns are too long for any such ides, and their protection must necessarily revolve with them. As the d'Adda turret would weigh something near a thousand mense a moving mass would be very considerable. The risk of the revolving mechanism being put out of action by the impact of heavy projectiles on the turnet sides would not be small, and that would mean the loss of four out of the six guns. Yet another serious drawback would be the exposure of the guns broadside on to chance projectiles. In the ordinary way only the muzzles of guns ever face hostile fire. They offer each only a circular target some three feet or so in diameter; the d'Adda guns would be continually offering a couple of targets each averaging quite fifteen feet by three a serious matter. These defects seem to outworth all the advantages claimed for the system. However, as the author says "the absurdity of to day is often the last of to morrow . In this he is no doubt thinking of triple turrets, which, when first projected (also from Italy), were condemned on all aides, but are now adopted by several navies of the allocations. At the selection of the service of the selection of the second of the second

Ir is but natural as a man approaches middle-age to look back and consider in retrospect the days that are no more, and to compare modern things with those of his

Red Indian of FEMIMORE COOPER; the wild rider of the plains beloved by MAYNE REID; the highwaymen, corsairs, pirates and sailingship mariners of HENTY, MARRYAT, BALLANTYNE and MANVILLE FENN have gone never to return. But this. notwithstanding the boy of to-day gifted like all his predecessors with a vivid imagination, can if he wishes easily recreate the past and so repeople his world with all the heroes and dashing swashbucklers imaginable, provided that a past master of the writing craft, following in the wake of ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, for instance, prepares the story for him.

And so though to us of the elder generation the books of to-day do not come anywhere near the level attained by our own boyhood's favourites, the luds whom we see around us are really being equally well-served. They are getting all the stories of pirites, Red Indians, and "of battles long" ago" that their souls desire. Not a craving in any direction is left unsatisfied and they take full draught from the deep and variegated stream of history, romance, melodrama, and thrilling adventure just as their fathers did. Youth in this respect has always been well provided for, from the days of Homer downward, and we see no reason why it should not always be so. As each generation has it own problems to face, it own difficulties to surmount, so each is provided with the books that suit its needs, but in the case of boys those who supply his intellectra cravings find that given a slightly new dress nearly all the old stock figures can be used over and over again, for, as we remarked above, there is not a more "true blue Tory than the average boy. So the lament of middle-age may be dismissed as an unreal phantasy conjured up in the privacy of the ingle-nook: natural of published Philippine Republic, who I wanted in the Philippions to milego harm of imprisonment for alleged abduction was again brought, before Mr E. A. Irving this morning in connection with the application for his extradition. Mr Hodgson appeared in support of the application, and Mr W. B. Hind defended.

Prisoner was again put into the box, and in reply to Mr Hind he stated that section dof the Act passed by Congress in regard to the government of the Philippines had the effect that some foreigners residing in the Philippines, for example Spaniards, were now Filipino citisens.

Mr Hind-The section I want is the section which explains what the effect of the ceding of the Philippine Islands to the United States is upon the nationality of persons previously living in the Philippines Prisoper-According to Section & we are Filipino citizens and cannot be American citizens. So it comes about that Filipinus travelling in foreign constries are not

What is your opinion of the reason why these proceedings are being taken against you!".

His Worship. This is not evidence am not going to take that. Mr Hodgson - It is not evidence; it is uite irrelevant.

Mr Hind-I rather think it is relevant. His Worship-Well, I rule it is not. Mr Hind-Very well, I will not pres that point. Prisoner was then cross-examined by Mr Hodgson as fullows :-

This evidence you have been giving us this morning is merely your view of translation of the Spanish document you have there?-It is not my opinion; it written heres.

You found it in that Spanish book !-Not only in this book, but it has been decided in many cases which have been tried in the islands and also in the Federal Supreme Court of the United States. But sport from that you have no authority at all 2-I am an attorney. Oh, I see ; so you think you are competent to give evidence? - It is customary that attorneys can give opinions about law. Mr Hind then addressed the Court stated that the first point that he intended to raise was that the proceedings were taken not with the motive of obtaining the extradition of the prisoner for the offence | on June 13, 1911. The offer of Sir J on which he had been convicted, but for the purpose of punishing him for an entiredifferent crime. According to the Extradition Act a fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if he proves that the requisition for his surrender was in fact. made with a view of trying to punish him for a offence of a political character. In other words, if it was found that although in fact the application for extradition was in respect of some crime committed, yet if the ulterior motive or object was to punish him for something else, the prisoner was entitled to be discharged. Mr. Hind then presence in Hongkong was known to the executive authorities in the Philippines in 1908 and in 1910. For four years he had been in the Colony, as the executive authorities were well aware, and it was not until he commenced to publish his newspaper reflecting on the administration in Mr W. G. Noisn, Chief Interpreter at the Philippines that these proceeding were taken. From that fact his Worship was entitled to infer that the proceedings were not taken for the purpose of punishbeen committed, but to punish him for an entirely different offence and for causing the publication of the paper to be stopped Mr Hind next contended that the documents put in connection with the case were not properly authenticated according to the provision of the Act, and then went on to argue that if, as was given in svidence by Consul General Anderson and now contended by the Crown, the Philippine Islands were an integral part of the territory of the United States, the requisition for extradition should have been made by an official of the United States of America and not by an official of the Philippines. because the requisition must be made by state demanding the extradition of the invitive offender. The only time that

Governor of a part of a foreign state had the power to demand extradition was when that part of the state was in the position His Worship-You say the requisition should be made by an official of the United States I Mr Hind-Yes. His Worship-And you sty that th Governor General of the Philippines is not an official of the United States 7: Mr. Hind-That goes without saying. Mr Hodgson, in his address, contended hat his Worship must commit the prisoner to good to await the further orders of His Excellency, because it had been proved in the proper manner that the prisoner had been convicted of an extradition crime that of abduction, which was not only an extradition crime in the Philippines but also according to English law. Section 10 of the Extradition Act stated that provided a conviction was proved. connection. Mr Hodgson que ted a decision to the effect that it a person was charged with an extradition crime not connected with political disturbances but in fact he had been concerned in political affairs in regard to which no charge was made, the Court D. W. Wurtebaugh, Lieutenant Calvin, before whom he was brought would not enter into the question of that political affair or consider the possibility of therewith in the country to which he was normandered There was no suggestion in the case that the crime committed was in any shape or form connected with political disturbances, and it mathered not the prisoner was wanted for political purposes unless the charge on which his surrender was asked for was connected with political matters, So Mr. Hinds point entirely failed. With regard to the docu-

AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY EMPEROR'S THREAT OF ### ABDICATION.

Reuter's Service to the China Mail.) LONDON, April 1.

A sensation has been caused in Austria-Hungary by the news that at the audience accorded to Count Khuen-Hedervary on Friday, the Emperor Francis Joseph threatened to abdicate unless the resolution of the Hungarian Parliament, limiting His Majesty's power in calling out reserves, was withdrawn.

The Hungarian Cabinet unwillingly acquiesced in the resolution with a view to ending the Opposition's obstruction of the Army Bill.

It was the King's resolute refusal to assent to the resolution that led to the Finally he induced the Cabinet to abandon the resolution and seek to placate the Opposition in other ways. The Emperor Francis Joseph has now issued a letter to Count Khuen-Hedervary which is practically an appeal to the Hungarian Nation. It emphasises the care with which he has observed and maintained the nation's constitutional rights, and says he must as resolutely preserve the rights of the ruler, and can only fulfil the sovereign duties if enabled to carry out both obligations,

CRISIS AVERTED.

A message from Reuter's agent at Buda Pest states that Count Khuen Hederrary, Prosident of Ministry, an nounced in the Hungarian Parliament that the Cabinet had reassumed office in deference to His Majesty's wish. He asked for a vote of confidence.

The big match of the week was at Hawisk. where Edinburgh University ren a great risk in taking the field without two of their Internationals. They held a decided ad vantage forward, hewaver, and were in value for their win. Hawick's three courter line were not at their best : Burnet and Sutherland were the most useful pair afield; and Ogilvie had hard luck in losing the touch after a great run. Edinburgh Academicals, though at full strength, were never in it with Watsonians ; but their sound defence kept the score within moderate limits. A better fight had been expected. These two matches give the Varsity and Watsonians a secure place at the top of the list. Each has suffered one defeat the searing is rather in favour of the School, -Watsonians, 35t points for and 44 against . Varsity, 145 points for and 35 against. Curiously enough, the on loss of the. Varsity was to Watsonians, on an occasion when they had a deploted side R.H.S. had an easy win from Heriotonians; Hume and Gunn at half were in great form. Glasgow H.S. failed to put up anything like a fight against Glasgow Andemicals.

"THE QUARER GIRL

Monday evening saw the Bandmann Opers Company produce . The Quaker Girl," and a very good house was attracted. This piece has been played in Hongkong before, but we wenture to any that lit was never better given than on this occasion. In the title role Miss Violet Frampton was a distinct success, and many encores were demanded of her. She acted prottily and many syreculy, such what there could does want of so prodent a Quaker Girl. As the Princess Mathilde, Miss Marjorie Tempest han a part which enabled her to use her splendid voice to fine affect, and equally suited was Miss Kitty Barlow to the part of Madame Blum; Miss Lily Drury as Pheebo gave an excellent interpretation. The fun of the piece was well brought ut by Mr Bobby Roberts as deremish.

whose [set] were continually cripping of allowed by Chalcers while the part sealor ed to Mr Fritz as the Chief of the Parisian police, enabled him to aid his confrore in the mitth provoking line very successfully. Mr James McGrath as Tony Chute made a distinct hit. Altogether the performance was of high merit and sent the audience home very delighted.

On Limb Four Years. Scaly and Itchy Thought it incurable. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured It.

of my log. I think about four yours. It started as a little red itchy spot. I did not bood it much, till it began to spread. Ulbers started, with pain, then with itching. A bad leg it was; from the shin-bone around to the inside of the leg, scaly, wet, itchy, sometimes dry; with foul boils and pimples, at times very

"I tried a lot of cures but it got worse. Then I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Oinsment... The spot strected, by the time I got a small box of Cuticura Ointment, was as big as my hand, but by the time the box was, empty the skin was howled. I washed with the Cuticura Scap, applying the Cuticura Ointment every night, on the sflected part-and all around it. Now my leg is completely and Ointment. All the stuff I applied before getting the Cuticura Soap and Ointment failed. That leg bothered roo for four years and is now healed thanks to the Cutiours Soap and Ointment and I strongly recommend them to all. The lich and scurf and scales are gone, and I have had no further trouble. had thought my leg incurable." (Signed) James Bell, 1. Pretoria Place, Kirkford, Cowdenbeath, Fife, N. B., July 18, 1911.

No stronger evidence than this could be given of the success and economy of the Cuticum Remedies in the treatment of all-forms of ecsemas, rashes, itchings and irritations of the skin and scalp.
